Resident confronts knife-welding burglar Friday

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

Police have a suspect and charges are pending against the man who police believe entered an Old Lair Road home and confronted the resident with a knife.

Last Friday at about 11 a.m., Veronica Aubrey walked in on a burglar inside her home. She told police she had just arrived and home and placed a bag on the couch when a white man came out of the rear bedroom holding a knife.

According to a report filed by Ptl. Jeff Thomas, when the intruder approached Aubrey with the knife, she grabbed his hands and punched him in the chest. She said the stranger then got behind her, punched her and knocked her to the floor. He then ran from the residence.

Aubrey sustained scratches and cuts to her hands and her abdomen as well as being scratched cross her chest.

Thomas said the only things that were determined to be missing were a gold birthstone ring with a purple tear drop stone and some cash.

It appeared that the bathroom had been gone through and the medicine cabinet left open. Aubrey said she didn't have any medications in the home. Closets were also rifled.

She described the man as being between 5 feet, 10 inches and 6 feet tall. He was wearing blue jeans and had dark-colored hair. The knife was six to eight inches long and would not have fit into his pocket.

Changes occur in Brown bankruptcy

Kay Brown retains criminal defense attorney

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

The latest in the continuing story of Kay Brown, the estranged wife of former Cynthiana mayor and prominent Harrison County businessman Jim Brown, is the conversion of her Chapter 11 bankruptcy pursuit to Chapter 7.

According to bankruptcy court documents, a supplement was filed "in light of newly discovered information at the deposition of Brenda Kay Brown." The supplement asked the court to convert to Chapter 7 the case that was filed by Kay Brown on Jan. 13, 2012.

In Chapter 7, a court-appointed trustee sells assets, and the debtor is discharged of debts rather than an individual reorganizing under court supervision in Chapter 11.

In the supplement, which was filed March 20 in U.S. District Court in Lexington, by Richard Wehrle, conservator for Jim Brown, and Paul Brown, brother and guardian, suggest that the court should act in favor of the best interest of the creditors and the estate.

"Two important factors in determining the best interests of the creditors and estate are whether [Kay Brown] has engaged in misconduct and whether creditors are in need of a Chapter 7 case to protect their interests."

The supplemental motion also questions Kay Brown's honesty and good faith and gave a specific example of a U.S. Treasury check where she allegedly forged the signature of her husband, who continues to recover from a December 2008 stroke.

According to the document, Kay Brown first admitted to signing the check with her husband's name and then pleaded the Fifth Amendment when asked about the check again during a deposition.

Citizen of the Year

Feix's passion for genealogy brings together 'distant' cousins

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

When Charley Feix attended this year's Chamber of Commerce awards banquet, his circumstances were somewhat different from other honorees.

He was told he was going because his son-in-law was being recognized as the Farmer of the Year. And, indeed, Troy Bradford did earn that tribute.

However, Feix himself was also to be one of the honorees that night as the 2011 Citizen of the Year.

As his volunteer inventory was read, Feix was holding his breath while his wife Susan and one of his daughters, Mary Ware, held back sheepish grins.

Not only had Feix retired from his profession of air traffic controller after 26 years with the Federal Aviation Administration, the last 16 years as assistant facility chief at Lexington tower, but he had also "retired" from his volunteer service a few years ago.

However, when he "retired," he exempted a few things like his work at the Cynthiana-Harrison County Public Library with genealogy assistance and at Battle Grove Cemetery. He did retire from their boards of directors, but continues in some capacity as a volunteer.

School system to take over pre-K

By BEN HYATT, News Writer

Harrison County Schools will be offering a new pre-K program for the 2012-13 school year.

The Harrison County Board of Education will begin enrollment for its new Harrison County pre-K program on April 25 and 26.

"The registration will take place at the same time that we have our kindergarten registration," said assistant special education director and pre-school coordinator Whitney Fowler.

Traditionally, Harrison County has partnered with Community Action to provide space for a Head Start Program, however, the school district is seeking new avenues to make children more classroom ready.

"Due to the changing state standards, we saw an opportunity to move forward and provide more for the children," said assistant superintendent DeeGee Fischer. "We still plan to work with Community Action, but at different levels."

The new pre-K program provided by the school will offer bus transportation for students as well as meals during their school time.

"We plan to have an a.m. and p.m. session," said Fowler. "The a.m. session students will be given breakfast and the p.m. children will be served lunch."

The morning preschool schedule will begin with students arriving at school between 7:30 and 8:15 a.m., where they will be served breakfast at 8:15 a.m., before being taken to their rooms at 8:40 a.m.

Students will be given instructional teaching by certified teachers from 8:40 until 11:10 a.m.

4-H mentor retiring

Roberts will step into volunteer role

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

Bill Roberts would much rather shine the light on the accolades of his many 4-H students than on himself.

However, after 28 years as Harrison County's 4-H mentor, Roberts is stepping down with all the hoopla associated with retirement.

A reception will be held in his honor Sunday at the Extension office from 2-4 p.m.

Roberts came to Harrison County in July 1984 after working eight years with the College of Agriculture.

"It was a good start,"

Roberts said of coming in just in time to get his bearings and head into all of the schools with their opening just a couple of weeks into his joining the Extension staff.

Roberts wasn't comfortable talking about himself and what highlighted his career. However, he noted with pride how many of his students made it to National 4-H Congress, and how many participated in state and national livestock shows and judging.

He is as excited today about sending kids to 4-H camp in Carlisle as he was 28 years ago when he was sending many of today's campers' parents away for a week.

It's rewarding, he said, knowing that the 4-Hers of his early career are now back volunteering as adults. However, he said it is also a reflection of the pride these people have in their community.

Roberts has about 850 active student contacts each year. Add in the students who have perhaps one project and that

Spring clean-up week is April 14-21 in Harrison County

By BEN HYATT, News Writer

Spring Clean Up Week will be April 14-21 in Harrison County. County Judge-Executive Alex Barnett said the county barn will be open to Harrison County residents April 11 until April 18 to collect all unwanted “junk.” Barnett added that the county will also be offering $10 for every white good, including washers, dryers and freezers, brought in.

“This will hopefully be a way to clean-out some hollows where old washers and dryers have been setting for the past years,” said Barnett.” Also discussed was the approval of the resolution to refinance a bond with Harrison Memorial Hospital. HMM CEO Sheila Currans told the court that by refinancing a $17.5 million loan with Central Bank, the hospital may save as much as $500,000 in interest payments.

“We are doing our best to save money where we can and this is a proactive way of doing so,” said Currans. The court voted to allow the hospital to refinance its loan. Finally, bids for stone and road oil were read by County Attorney Bradley Vaughn. “We have only one bid for each,” said Vaughn. “Hudson Oil for the contract for road oil and The Rock Group for stone.”

A motion was made and passed to contract both groups for stone and road oil for the upcoming year. As a matter of record, Barnett brought before the court a list of county roads, which have been examined by road personnel for maintenance needs. Barnett asked the magistrates to drive the roads in their districts and inform him of any changes they may see need to be made to the report submitted by the county road department.

Burglary charges pending from weekend break-in on Pike Street

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

Police have a suspect and charges are pending against Bradley Walker, 29, Cynthiana, for third degree burglary in connection with a weekend break-in at George Velat's home on Pike Street. According to Ptl. Michael Kiskaden of the Cynthiana Police Department, Walker is alleged to have entered the Velat home and removed household items, equipment used in Velat's heating and air conditioning business, tools and copper wiring. Some of the property was recovered on Tuesday at pawn shops and scrap yards, Kiskaden said. He said it was initially believed the property was valued above $1,000. However, he said more items have turned up and those will be added. Walker is lodged in the Bourbon County Detention Center on an unrelated charge of theft by failure to make required disposition, also from Harrison County.

Brown

From BROWN, front page accounts also came under scrutiny. Attorneys for the guardian and conservator allege that just prior to the bankruptcy proceeding, at the time of the guardian appointment hearing on Oct. 4, 2011, Kay Brown had $377,760.39 in a City National Bank savings account which she allegedly withdrew and gave to her brother, Roger Kirk, who then endorsed and deposited the check. Those funds were later used to pay attorney fees. However, Kirk issued a promissory note to Kay Brown in the amount of $215,000, indicating that she owed him that debt. The guardians through their attorneys claim this was done to avoid recovery of the funds by the conservator. Another discrepancy identified in the motion was in the value of Kay Brown's jewelry. She testified during a deposition that her engagement ring from Jim had been valued by The Castle Jewelers in Lexington at $6,800. However, the ring was insured for $66,370 under a policy that was renewed on July 17, 2011. A March 13 deposition was continued to March 16 at which time a criminal attorney representing Kay Brown was brought into the discussion. The Ashland attorney, Mike Curtis, said he had been retained by Kay Brown's family in regards to potential criminal liability as a result of the Chapter 11 suit. It was at this time that Curtis advised his client to exercise her Fifth Amendment rights as it relates to any monies, any checks or property. In addition to the supplement to convert the case to a Chapter 7 filed by Jim Brown's representatives, a supplement was also filed requesting the same conversion by the U.S. trustee. In a response to the accusations, Kay Brown's attorneys contends there is no evidence that she committed any crime or perpetrated any fraud. On March 22, a consent motion was filed to dismiss the Chapter 11 case. However, she contends that the trustee and conservator filed their motions to convert the case to a Chapter 7 on the same grounds and that the conservator has been using estate property, without authorization, to finance his campaign against her. The agreed order was also filed on March 22. The following day, U.S. bankruptcy judge Joseph M. Scott Jr. gave Kay Brown 14 days to turn over copies of all books, records of accounts, bank books, bank statements and cancelled checks for six months prior to the bankruptcy case, any real estate deeds or titles, mortgages, liens, title papers to any vehicles, certificates of stock, bonds, keys to any safety deposit boxes and contracts of life or burial insurance, income tax returns for the last year, etc. A meeting of the creditors was set for April 25 in Lexington.

Harrison County High School students Evan Clifford, John King and Devon Williams were selected for the TTBB (tenor, tenor, bass, bass) choir at the Kentucky Music Educators' Association 2012 High School All-State Choirs. The groups performed Friday, Feb. 10, at the Kentucky Center for the Arts in Louisville during the KMEA state conference.

Real Cat lovers bleed blue

Due to the time of the year, I believe it is time to have a little Cat Talk.

I am not a sports writer by any means but, since our sports writer is from Indiana, I feel it only fair that the Kentucky basketball team have some kind positive spotlight this week before they go to battle their in-state rivals.

If you're not a Cat lover, then you will simply miss the significance of UK being in the final four.

It has been 14 years since the Wildcats have cut the nets down as the NCAA champions and UK fans are spending more time at night praying that this is the year to end the curse.

It's a drought that most schools and fans would simply shrug their shoulders at, but of course, the University of Kentucky and its fans are not ordinary.

I have heard UK fans referred to as crazy, overwhelming, raving mad, loopy and even nuts... thanks, we try to be.

However, as I said before, if you're not a Cat lover then you will simply not understand what basketball means to the state of Kentucky... especially the Big Blue Nation.

Ben Hyatt
News Writer

Before the season even began, all I heard was talk of how talented UK's squad was going to be this year. However, talent does not always beat experience.

To some degree, I will agree that talent will not always over skill a group of players who have been playing basketball with each other for possibly three years.

I'm sure when the UK players walked onto the floor to face a Baylor University team, which only lists two freshman on its roster, there must have been butterflies in their stomachs.

However, the three freshman two sophomore starting lineup kept their cool and did what they do best... win.

Despite numerous UK haters, the young team has posted a 36-2 record and went a perfect 16-0 in their conference.

It would be impossible for anyone to say that they would not be happy if their beloved team put up numbers like that every season.

Now onto New Orleans, where the Cats will take on their in-state rival the University of Louisville Cardinals, coached by former UK and National Championship coach Rick Pitino.

Love the guy or hate him, he is a winner and continues to add to his hall of fame career each time he leads his players onto the court.

The match-up could not be better, unless they were playing for the title and of course the fans would have it no other way.

There is sure to be some bad blood between the two teams, which is understandable given that most in-state rivalries need no reason to dislike each other... it's just the nature of the beast.

I wish the Cats well and look forward to seeing John Calipari win his first-ever national championship (knock on wood) of his career.

Just a word of caution to those traveling through Lexington on Saturday: Don't expect there to be any parking at restaurants with televisions or friendly remarks if you're wearing red.

Go Big Blue!!!

PASSING BUDGETS AND BILLS

FRANKFORT — The Commonwealth's two-year budget plan continued to dominate much of the Senate's attention this week.

This is the most important work of any even-year 60-day legislative session as well as the most time-consuming. Arriving at a two-year spending plan the Senate, House and Governor can all sign off on is never a simple task. But this year -- after five years of an ailing economy and the end of the federal stimulus money we used to patch together a balanced budget during the worst recession in memory -- it seems even more daunting.

There is some good news out there. State revenues are finally rebounding from the economic downturn that began in 2007. That is welcome news, yes, but it still only puts us back at pre-recession revenue levels. And, in those intervening years, just as your household expenses have increased, so has the cost of programs and services funded by the State.

We are left with a shortfall of more than $700 million and the stark reality that agencies and programs having already endured 10 rounds of cuts, face even more cuts in the next budget cycle. Most, with the exception of a few critical areas such as Medicaid, and base funding for public schools, would endure another 8.4 percent in cuts over the next two years.

We protected education as well as we could. Under the latest version of the plan, our public universities and Education Cabinet were spared the full impact of the 8.4 percent cut. The Senate added provisions to provide relief for school districts impacted by the recent tornadoes, including additional disaster days, and a special process to calculate SEEK funding for 2012-2013. Even with a tight budget, members of the General Assembly feel it is important to help our storm-ravaged communities to get back on track.

RJ PALMER

Legislative and judicial branches of government, not included in the $19.5 billion executive branch budget, will face the full 8.4 percent cut, as well.

More money was eked out in a few essential areas, including social services, in response to frontline workers' overwhelming caseloads. We also provided an additional funding for transitional living for developmentally disabled Kentuckians. Even in the dire situation we are in, we must ensure that our most vulnerable citizens are protected.

While our bleak financial situation squelches any substantial hope that major funding changes will occur in the budget plan, it is important to keep in mind that the details are not yet final. They will not be until a conference committee, comprised of members of both chambers, iron out the differences in each of their plans.

We are hopeful the final version of the budget will reflect a responsible level of debt and carry us through the next two years, to a better economy where Kentuckians are back at work and businesses big and small are thriving.

We also considered other important legislation this week, as well.

We unanimously passed House Bill 390, in an effort to decrease the theft of items containing copper or other valuable metals. The measure forbids cash payments by metal recyclers for items -- too often stolen -- such as catalytic converters and copper parts from air conditioning units. It requires that payment be made in the form of a mailed check the day following the purchase.

Under the provisions of the bill, secondary metal recyclers would also have to register with the State and undergo a background check. The bill also establishes misdemeanor and felony crimes relating to the destruction of property for the intent of stealing valuable metals. We hope this will help prevent homeowners, churches, builders, and others from dealing with vandalized and damaged property stripped by thieves of valuable metals -- a growing problem that has already plagued many Kentuckians.

We passed House Concurrent Resolution 129 that establishes a task force to study our juvenile code that dates to the mid-1980s. The task force, which would be comprised of judges, lawyers and other juvenile justice officials, would study issues ranging from status offenders, to the use of community resources, to the feasibility of establishing an age of criminal responsibility. The task force would report to the Interim Joint Committee on Judiciary and LRC no later than Jan. 7, 2013.

With only a few more working days remaining, the session is quickly winding down. There is still time, though, for important measures -- such as those addressing substance-abuse issues -- to become law. I encourage you to take this opportunity to have your voice heard in this legislative session.

John Green

Taking on the Legends

Local dispatcher will be new address announcer

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

His is a voice that would likely be recognized around Cynthiana and Harrison County. But that's soon to expand.

Owners of police scanners have heard the voice of John Green directing police, fire or ambulance to where they are needed.

He is also heard over the airwaves of WCYN 1400 in "The Green Room," but more recently as co-host with Mike Aldridge on "Let's Talk Sports."

He'll soon be sharing his voice with fans of the Lexington Legends as their new public address announcer.

"I always loved sports and wanted to be involved," Green said.

However, it was his parents who advised that very few athletes get to go to the next level after their high school or college careers.

"The next best thing was announcing," Green said.

His first public address job was with the Pendleton County Wildcats while he was attending high school there.

After he graduated in 2001, he stayed on as the announcer for Wildcat basketball. And in 2004-05, the Wildcats made it to the Sweet 16.

He has been able to feed his need for sports and announcing with his jobs as dispatcher and radio host.

However, when the Legends came to Cynthiana for a meet-and-greet at Biancke's, Green was there to "network."

When he was told that the public address announcer for the Legends had resigned, Green was in with a mid February audition in Lexington.

The Legends wanted Green behind the microphone for every home game, however, his commitment to his dispatch position with 911, will allow him only about 50 of the 70 home games on the schedule.

"It's just the beginning," Green said.

"This is my dream. I wanted to be involved with broadcasting of any team. The Legends are a part of Major League baseball. You never know what can happen."

The Legends are the Single A affiliate of the Houston Astros. Their season runs from April 12 to Sept. 3. Home games are played in Lexington.

Green will be there on opening day, reading off the line-up and welcoming fans to Whitaker Bank Park.

Green is a 2002 graduate of the Ohio Center for Broadcasting.

In 2003 he became the public address announcer for the Kentucky Coyotes, a minor league basketball team.

He is the son of Rick and Eevea Green of Grant County.

He and his wife, Helen have three sons and a daughter on the way and due in the height of baseball season.

The Greens, with their children, Weston, A.C. and Blake, live near Sunrise.

"The state requires that we provide two and a half hours of instruction time," said Fowler.

The afternoon session will begin with students arriving at noon and provided lunch at 12:05 p.m., then escorted to their rooms at 12:30 p.m.

From 12:30 p.m. until 3:30 p.m. students will be given their instructional education and dismissed to the buses at 3:05 p.m.

"I see many good things coming from this," said Fischer.

"For one, the students will attend the elementary school where they will later go to kindergarten. This will help them become more at ease before starting their full-time educational experience."

Fischer also pointed out that the students will be taught by certified teachers.

"We are receiving grants to help pay for the hiring of new teachers for the program," said Fischer.

"The number we hire will depend on how many students register for classes."

Superintendent Andy Dotson said the focal point of the new program will be to jump-start students' readiness for college and careers.

"We see this as an investment not a cost," said Dotson.

"We intend on having first rate education being taught with certain standards to be met."

Fowler said the program will also allow personnel to monitor performance in the classroom.

"We will be able to monitor possible communication, motor and concept domains," said Fowler.

"We will also be able to let the children intermingle with the kindergarten classes should they show signs of advanced learning."

Fowler said initial screenings will be held from May30 through June 1 to identify any domain issues that children may have.

"We will finally be able to find delaying issues and hopefully correct them through interventions," said Fowler.

"When they step through the doors the first day of kindergarten they will be ready."

Executive director of Community Action for Lexington-Fayette Bourbon Harrison and Nicholas counties Jack Burch said Community Action still plans to offer services to Harrison County children and families.

"We began the Head Start program in the late 80's and have done our best to serve the people of Harrison County," said Burch.

"We will continue to provide for those who are in need."

Burch said some changes may come in the near future concerning scheduling for the students enrolled in Head Start.

"If kids are enrolled then we will find a place for them to meet," said Burch.

Currently 156 students are enrolled in the Head Start program, which meets in six different locations in the county.

Of the six locations, four are public school buildings.

For any additional information about Harrison County's new Pre-K program, contact Fowler at 234-7110 ext. 3235.

Ephesians 2: 11-22

"God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son that all people who believe in him might have eternal life." Jesus arose from the dead and all his people today, who believe in Jesus, are called Christian.

Rom. 3:23 "For all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God." Acts 10: 42 , talking about Jesus, "And he ordered us to preach to the people, and solemnly to testify that this is the one who has been appointed by God as judge of the living and the dead. " Therefore, remember that formerly you who are Gentiles by birth and called "uncircumcised" by those who call themselves "the circumcision" (which is done in the body by human hands) remember that at that time you were separate from Christ, excluded from citizenship in Israel and foreigners to the covenants of the promise, without hope and without God in the world. But now in Christ Jesus you who once were far away have been brought near by the blood of Christ.

For he himself is our peace, who has made the two groups one and has destroyed the barrier, the dividing wall of hostility, by setting aside in his flesh the law with its commands and regulations. His purpose was to create in himself one new humanity out of the two, thus making peace, and in one body to reconcile both of them to God through the cross, by which he put to death their hostility. He came and preached peace to you who were far away and peace to those who were near. For through him we both have access to the Father by one Spirit.

Consequently, you are no longer foreigners and strangers, but fellow citizens with God's people and also members of his household, built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, with Christ Jesus himself as the chief cornerstone. In him the whole building is joined together and rises to become a holy temple in the Lord. And in him you too are being built together to become a dwelling in which God lives by his Spirit.

There are many different kinds of people in this earth and Jesus died on the cross for the sins of those who believe in him. There is one church in the Bible and the Lord Jesus Christ knows those who belong to him. He can come for his church at any time.

Matt. 24: 42 "Therefore keep watch, because you do not know on what day your Lord will come. But understand this: If the owner of the house had known at what time of night the thief was coming, he would have kept watch and would not have let his house be broken into."

"Now may the God of hope fill you with a joy and peace in believing, that you may abound in hope by the power of the Holy Spirit. Come Lord Jesus."

Now that he's "retired," Feix continues to pursue his interest in family history by visiting cousins in France ever year.

"They don't speak English and I don't speak French, but we get our points across," Feix said, noting he can speak some German as does the wife of his cousin. "We have a ball."

Feix describes his trips to the small village in France with great affection. It's where his grandparents came from in 1872.

In this village, Feix said he is staggered by the familiar Cynthiana names that pop up. For instance, the Gassers, Hausbergers, Langs and Feix all come from the same village and settled in Cynthiana, Ky.

"It's just like going home," he said.

The cousins will be traveling to Cynthiana this summer.

"I'll go as long as I'm able," said the 75-year-old Feix.

Managing legume-induced bloat in cattle

By GARY CARTER, Co. EXT. AGENT

What is Bloat? Bloat in cattle can result in lost animal performance and severe cases, death. It occurs as a result of a buildup of fermentation gases in the rumen. Bloat may be categorized as frothy bloat, which is caused by the formation of stable foam in the rumen, or free gas bloat, which is due to excessive production of gaseous compounds from fermentation or as a result of an obstruction preventing the escape of gas compounds. Legume bloat is a frothy bloat condition. In normal situations, these gases are eructated (belched) out of the animal. When this gas is prevented escaping the rumen, it builds up, and the rumen becomes distended or stretched. As the pressure in the rumen increases, breathing is affected, because the diaphragm cannot expand and create the negative air pressure in the lungs necessary to inhale. In severe cases, this inability to inhale may cause death from suffocation. Bloat potential is greatest during rapid growth periods in spring and declines during summer. Most incidences in Kentucky are usually from mid-March through May. What are the causes? Legumes and succulent cereal grain forages such as rye and wheat, which are high in soluble protein, low in lignin, and have a highly digestible cell wall, are considered high risk for promoting frothy bloat. Digestion of legumes high in soluble protein can cause the formation of slime that traps the fermentation gasses and rumen contents, resulting in the frothy appearance and preventing the gas from being expelled. Saliva contains mucin, which functions as an antifoaming agent, and has been shown to suppress the formation of rumen foam in laboratory bench work. It would be plausible that saliva production may be lower in bloating animals, perhaps as a result of selective grazing of higher quality forages followed by less rumination and/or a genetic difference in saliva and mucin production among animals. When cattle graze lush plants capable of causing legume bloat, no management practices will ensure bloat doesn't occur. The following management strategies can, however reduce its incidences: •Grow grass-legume mixtures instead of pure legumes. •Avoid grazing very immature white clover or alfalfa. Research shows alfalfa grazed less than 10 inches tall had two times more bloat than when it is grazed at 19 inches. •Put animals on lush legume pastures only when plants are free of surface moisture (dew or rain). •Provide a full feeding of hay before turning animals into lush legume stands for the first time. •Continue offering free-choice hay. Although bloat is associated with certain plants, some animals have a genetic predisposition to bloat, so you should cull chronic bloaters. Do not remove animals from pasture during first signs of bloat. Continuous grazing results in less incidences of bloat than removal and return. •Provide access to water and minerals. •Observe animals closely following any abrupt change in the weather. •Feed bloat-reducing compounds such as Bloat Guard or Poloxalene. •Strip grazing can be effective in helping to reduce the risk of bloat. When you see the first signs of bloat make sure you contact your local veterinarian for treatment and any suggestions during the critical period. Legumes are lush and growing very fast so check your animals often during the next month.

Harrison among Kentucky counties eligible for FSA emergency loans

On March 9, 2012, President Obama amended disaster declaration M4057 to include seven Kentucky counties as disaster areas due to damages and losses caused by severe storms, tornadoes, straight-line winds and associated flooding that occurred from Feb. 29, 2012, through March 3, 2012. As a result of the declaration, 23 Kentucky counties were named as contiguous counties where eligible family farmers may qualify for FSA EM loan assistance pursuant to Section 321(a) of the Consolidated Farm and Rural Development Act. Those counties are Boone, Bourbon, Carter, Clark, Elliott, Fleming, Floyd, Gallatin, Harrison, Henry, Johnson, Kenton, Lawrence, Lewis, Menifee, Morgan, Nicholas, Owen, Pendleton, Pike, Powell, Scott, and Trimble. EM loan applications for physical and production losses will be received through Nov. 9 and applications pending on that date may be processed and completed. Farmers interested in applying for assistance should contact the FSA county office at 103 Rodgers Park Dr., 859-234-2646.

Enrollment reminder for DCP and other FSA programs

U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Farm Service Agency (FSA) State Executive Director John W. McCauley reminds producers that the 2012 deadline to enroll in the Direct and Counter-Cyclical Payment (DCP) program is June 1. "I encourage all producers interested in DCP to visit the service center where their farm is administered and sign up before the busy planting season gets underway," said McCauley. "Enrollments cannot be accepted after the deadline, so enrolling early may help producers avoid missing the deadline during one of the most demanding times of the year." DCP provides payments to eligible producers on farms enrolled for any of the 2008 through 2012 crop years. There are two types of DCP payments: direct payments and counter-cyclical payments. Both are calculated using the base acres and payment yields established for the farm. DCP is authorized by the Food, Conservation and Energy Act of 2008 (2008 Farm Bill).

In addition to DCP, other FSA programs also have enrollment deadlines approaching: •Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program. Check with the FSA service center for dates. •GRAZE-OUT, March 31 for calendar year 2011 crops. •Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) general sign-up 43, April 6. •Average Crop Revenue Election (ACRE), June 1. •Supplemental Revenue Assistance Payment Program (SURE), June 1 for crop year 2010. •2011 ACRE Production Evidence, July 15. •Certification of Planted Acres- various deadlines, but no later than July 15. •Farm Reconstitutions (changes), Aug. 1 for the 2012 crop year. •MILC, Sept. 30. •Crop Insurance, contact a crop insurance agent or the regional RMA office. For more information on these and other FSA programs, contact the FSA service center at 103 Rodgers Park Dr., 234-2646, or visit www.fsa.usda.gov.

Suzanne Van Wert

Attorney joins Culbertson firm

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

A new attorney has joined the Cynthiana and Harrison County Bar Association, however, she's no newby in the local legal circles.

Suzanne Van Wert joined Ed Culbertson's law firm officially in January after six years of working out of his Cynthiana office unofficially.

Van Wert said she only recently committed to the partnership because of her additional work as a professional mediator, for which she had an office in Lexington.

In mediation, Van Wert serves as a facilitator or neutral third party in conflict where the parties cannot agree how to settle their differences.

Her law forte, she said, is business law, but also equine law and intellectual property law.

She is originally from Knoxville, Tenn. and now resides in Cynthiana with her husband George Van Wert and their two children, Julianna, 16, and Kevin, 15.

Van Wert met Culbertson in a court room six years ago. As the two became friends and trusted colleagues, Culbertson asked her to join him in his Cynthiana practice.

"Our personalities are so well suited to each other," she said. "We are a very good team and we're both excited about this venture. I couldn't have asked for a better partner."

She laughed as she said that the most exciting vision is "to bring this practice... dragging it out and into the 21st century."

She acknowledged that their secretary Kelly Brooks is the glue of the firm.

Another venture for Van Wert is getting the local law library stocked for the attorneys.

"We want our local attorneys to have the same advantage attorneys in Lexington have," she said.

Van Wert commended Harrison County's attorneys. She said she has worked with other bars "and the attorneys here have been the best to work with. Generally, they've been a pleasure, even opposing. The professionalism of this group is above board. That's why, this time around, I was ready to commit."

She graduated from the University of Tennessee and the Salmon P. Chase College of Law.

Prior to opening her own practice, Van Wert practiced business and information technology law at Deters, Benzinger & LaVelle in Cincinnati, Ohio, in the computer and information technology department.

She is licensed to practice in all courts of the Commonwealth of Kentucky and the Federal Court for the Eastern District of Kentucky.

When she's not in the court room or working, she is riding with her saddlebred horses.

"They're therapy when I get stressed out," she said. "It keeps me grounded."

Roberts

From ROBERTS, front page number raises drastically.

In Harrison County, 4-H is active in each of the four public elementary schools, the middle and high schools, St. Edwards and a Home School Club.

Roberts said the Extension programs as a whole are steeped with tradition in Harrison County that date back to the early 1900s.

"We have one of the five most active programs in the state of Kentucky," Roberts said. "The tradition has always been here; not just 4-H, but agriculture, family and consumer sciences and leadership development."

"There are very few people in elected or leadership positions that were not in 4-H in their youth," Roberts said.

He said he was very content with what has been accomplished with Harrison County's 4-H program.

"I'm very tickled with what we've done. We have kids all over the state as 4-H agents and there will be more I'm sure," he said.

One of those students is Mike Meyer, who will be taking over Roberts' position.

Meyer grew up in the Harrison County 4-H program and knew many of the families he would be associated with when he took over.

Roberts' father bought a farm on the Bourbon-Harrison County line in the 1970s. He said he was in Harrison County often enough that he made contacts here.

When the 4-H position opened, Roberts just fell into the role with an easy transition.

He said the single event that requires a lot of time from all of the agents is the Harrison County 4-H Fair. It takes several months to prepare for and the follow up events like the Kentucky State Fair.

Roberts graduated from Bryan Station High School in 1970. He earned his bachelors degree from the University of Kentucky in 1975 in zoology and a bachelor of science degree in 1987 in crop science.

Saturday is Roberts' last official day. However, he still has 28-years of packing to do in his office, from the mounted deer head to the volumes of books and photographs... many, many photographs.

Initially, Roberts was going to get started on that Monday. Now, though, he and his wife Carole may just go for a drive on Monday.

That won't be the end for Bill Roberts, though.

He plans to continue with 4-H in some manner. He said he'll still be a shooting coach. He plans to do some substitute teaching, working on forestry timber improvement and wildlife habitat development on his farm.

There may be some travel involved as well.

Southern States making long-term plans for US 27 S. development

By BEN HYATT, News Writer

Southern States is making plans for a potential move to the former H.A. Jones showroom.

While nothing is set in stone, Southern States has received the nod from the Cynthiana-Harrison County-Berry Joint Planning Commission to proceed with a development plan.

"The Southern States Coop started talking in August of last year about a possible move," said Cynthiana Southern States manager Dale Duckworth. "We wanted something bigger and easier to get in and out of."

Cynthiana-Harrison County-Berry Joint Planning Commission approved the plat and gave permission to plans for Southern States to develop and add to the H.A. Jones showroom property, which covers 8.175 acres.

"We are unsure of the next move," said Duckworth. "All we wanted to do was go through planning and zoning so when and if the time comes for us to move we would be that much father ahead."

Duckworth said tentative plans for a three-year phase have been looked at, which would include a new fertilizer building, warehouse and other structures for more modern equipment.

"Nothing is set in stone just yet," said Duckworth. "Right now the earliest we are looking to start building would be sometime in spring 2013."

Duckworth said business is growing and changing with trying to meet new demands of farmers every year.

"Right now we are just cruising along waiting for all the other cards to fall into place before we move ahead with any kind of plans," said Duckworth.

Harrison County Garden Club holds Spring luncheon

We had our annual Spring luncheon at the Vault. The food was delicious. Pat Slade gave the welcome and reviewed the scope of last year's projects. We had a very fun and fulfilling year.

Our garden handbook is dedicated to Susan Dumaine, who passed away earlier this year. Sue Sims did a great job putting the book together. We reminisced about Susan. She sure will be missed. Karen won the mint julep cup which is given for the most exhibit points. We need to get members to bring more exhibits to meetings this year.

We had a drawing for the friendship Garden and Karen won that also. She has a rock garden and can accommodate both shade and sun loving plants. We are to bring the plants to the April meeting.

Our members were challenged to participate in the Harrison County Fair flower show. There are lots of categories to exhibit and there are monetary rewards to boot. We talked about giving extra club exhibit points for the fair exhibits.

The decorations for our luncheon were gorgeous and Pat made a collage with wood hyacinths and daffodils. They smelled heavenly. We each received a cement butterfly which we are to paint and put in our gardens for a gift.

Senior Farmers' Market Nutrition Program offered

The members of the Harrison County Farmers Market invites senior citizens to come and shop with their local farmers. There is a program developed through the Department of Agriculture called Senior Farmers' Market Nutrition Program that all persons aged 60 years and older can apply for.

With this program an individual goes to the local senior citizen center which is located at 216 Old Lair Rd. and applies to receive vouchers in which you will purchase fresh fruits and vegetables from the local farmers market. When you apply, remember to take proof of your age and your income with you. Upon being accepted into this program, you will receive a booklet of vouchers that you will use to buy fruits or vegetables of your choice.

In the event that you qualify and can't make the trip to the market, you may have someone (your representative) bring your voucher to the market and they can shop for you. It is a great program for our senior citizens and we believe that not everyone knows about it.

The purpose of the Kentucky Senior Farmers' Market Nutrition Program (SFMNP) is to gain market access for farmers as well as improving nutrition of low income families by providing them to better access to fresh fruits and vegetables. Funding for Kentucky's program comes from state and federal resources.

Asparagus a garden investment

I am only now recovering. It has been four days since Andy and I planted out 100 asparagus crowns.

Planting asparagus is an investment on all accounts, time, labor, money, patience and then the big payoff, which is fresh asparagus for two months each spring right from your own garden.

This is the second time I have participated in an asparagus planting extravaganza (I told Andy when we were finished two times in a life time is enough for me).

I planted asparagus with my father nearly 30 years ago and we are still enjoying the bounty from that original planting so, you see, the investment is worth it all around.

Perhaps you are not interested in the volume of work and yield that 100 crowns offers so maybe 25 planted in a permanent spot in the garden will suffice.

Asparagus is a perennial so be certain about where you plant and be serious about preparing the planting bed.

This is the hardest part but once it is done, it is done! Asparagus will continue to produce for 30 years or more if it is properly maintained, our original planting is proof of that.

Prepare a 10-inch deep trench that is about two feet wide; add lots of organic matter like composted manure if your soil is clayey.

We use a stagger pattern to plant the crowns, imagine the paw prints of a cat and plant accordingly, spacing the center of the crowns about 12 inches apart.

To get asparagus started, it is not a bad idea to add a little phosphorus into the mix. I sprinkle a little bone meal into the trench before spreading out the roots of each crown and planting. Cover the crowns with about two inches of soil, reserving the remaining soil for later.

The unique thing about planting asparagus is that

Jeneen Wiche

Columnist

we add soil gradually over several weeks. Cover the crowns little by little as they emerge from dormancy and poke above the soil surface; that's our prompt to add some more soil until we are back even with the soil surface. Keep the plants evenly moist during this time.

When you purchase your asparagus crowns it will be noted how old they are (you can tell, too, by how robust they are) if you purchased 2-3 year old crowns you can start harvesting a little by next year, but it really is best to leave them be during the first year so they can go straight to fern.

At the fern stage the plant can maximize photosynthesis and pack in the energy to develop a strong root system and therefore higher yields next year.

Harvest a little next year and then you should be ready to really enjoy by the third year after planting

Long-term maintenance includes weeding (which, as a perennial crop, does become a problem after years in the same place, try using corn gluten as a preemergent); also don't cut asparagus tops (the ferny growth) back until it has naturally died back; the plants need to store energy throughout the summer and fall through their foliage for a good crop the following spring.

In fact, we have been burning our dried fern debris in late winter; this also accomplishes some pest control by burning any eggs of the asparagus beetle that might remain from the previous season.

Only burn if you are safe to do so in proximity to others and to buildings, though!

You can fertilize during active fern growth after the harvest season with composted manure or a balanced granular (I like the mixes that are organic like Espoma's product line; or make your own mixing cottonseed meal, bone meal and kelp.)

The Harrison County Young Farmer Association held their annual banquet on March 20 at the Harrison County Extension Office. The guest speaker this year was Clay Smittson. Receiving awards were Shelly Meyers- first, local/regional, diversified animal and third, regional, rural leadership; Kevin Arnold- third, local/regional, upland soybeans; and Randy Wade- first, local/regional, non alfalfa and burley tobacco and second, local/regional, beef production. Tornado relief volunteers

Fifty-four volunteers traveled to Salyersville, Ky., on Saturday, March 17, to assist with clean-up and recovery in the eastern Kentucky town that was hit by the March 2 tornado. The volunteers, who were working with Journey Church in Cynthiana, were able to deliver three trucks and one trailer-load of supplies to the community. The supplies were collected at Journey from citizens of Cynthiana and Harrison County. Several photographs were recovered for tornado victims. One volunteer found a diamond ring across the street from one of the demolished homes. The owner was located and the ring turned out to be a cherished keepsake from the woman's late mother.

Thorobreds win fifth straight Tuesday 9-1 over Fleming County

By MIKE ALDRIDGE, SPORTS WRITER

Senior Justin Nutter got his first start on the mound Tuesday and things didn't go exactly as planned as the first-year Thorobred was wild, walking three, hitting one batter, giving up two hits and one run in two and one third innings.

On the other hand, the struggles on the hill didn't bother his hitting any as he went three for four and drove in four runs in the Thorobreds 9-1 defeat of the Fleming County Panthers Tuesday in Flemingsburg.

Nutter and the hot-hitting Jordan Martin led the way for the Breds as each had three hits and Martin also drove in two runs.

Sophomore Zach Royce also had a multiple-hit game with two singles in four at bats.

The Breds jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the top of the second when Martin led off with a double, which was the only extra base hit for Harrison County in the game.

A single by Hunter Hill drove Martin in and Hill then came around to score on Xavier Carter's single.

Nutter gave up an unearned run in the bottom of the inning, which would be the only Panther's run of the game making the score 2-1 after two complete innings.

Nutter drove in John King in the third to make it 3-1 and then the gates opened in the fourth for Harrison County.

Eight Thorobreds made it to the plate in the fourth as the Breds pushed across four runs on four hits with Martin and Nutter batting in two runs each.

Carter, Christian Persinger, and Nolan Brossart combined for the last four and two thirds innings striking out four Panthers and giving up only two hits as they shut down the home team.

The Thorobreds gathered 13 hits for the game, 12 singles.

The win leaves Harrison County with a 5-0 record with a game Thursday at Scott High (3-1).

The Breds open the home season Friday with Covington Holy Cross (2-0) and then host Grant County Saturday. The Braves are 1-1-1 in the young season.

The loss on Tuesday gives Fleming County a 3-2 season record.

Fillies battle Grant County to 7-7 tie as darkness prevails

By MIKE ALDRIDGE, SPORTS WRITER

The Harrison County Fillies battled the Lady Braves of Grant County Thursday night in Dry Ridge to an unusual verdict in high school softball.

The game ended in a seven-all tie due to darkness. Grant County does not have lights. The tie makes the Fillies record 0-1-1 while Grant County is 1-1-1. (Since this game the Lady Braves have won four in a row and now stand at 5-1-1).

The Fillies scored first when Morgan Grose walked with one out in the top of the first and scored on third baseman Ashley Coppage's double. Grant County came back with an unearned run in the bottom of the second off starting pitcher Tracey Hicks when McClure singled and advanced on a sacrifice and a fielder's choice then scored on an error.

Harrison County took the lead again in the third when Emalee Little reached on a bunt single and Coppage again drove in the run, this time with a single.

Unfortunately, the Fillies gave up two runs in the bottom half of the inning on a couple of more errors sandwiched around two singles and a walk for the Lady Braves.

After the Fillies went down in order in the fourth, Jami Davis took over on the mound and after giving up a lead off single, set the Lady Braves down without a run.

Harrison County then jumped out to a 7-3 advantage in the top of the fifth when Davis singled, Little walked and Morgan Florence sacrificed them to second and third with one out.

Grose hit a two-run double to give the Fillies the lead 4-3 with still only one out.

Coppage and Hicks each drew a walk to load the bases and Sydney Motel scored Grose when she grounded to short.

Senior first sacker Lucy Boyers singled to drive in two more runs to give the 7-3 lead to the Fillies.

Grant County scored twice in the bottom of the inning on Syndor's single after two walks making the score after five

Tennis team bounces Bourbon Co. for first win

By MIKE ALDRIDGE, SPORTS WRITER

The Harrison County tennis team traveled to Bourbon County Monday night and came away with a sweep as both the girls' and boys' teams won.

The Fillies won all of the matches that were included in the scoring taking the contest 5-0.

Alycia Schaum won the No. 1 match 8-0 over Tina Stieglitz, Megan Lopez eased past Fran Vandongen 8-4, Shelby Tucker edged Angelica Garza 6-4, and Autumn McGrew took a close one from Haley West 6-5.

The doubles competition had the No. 1 Fillies pair of Abby Besson and Sara Barnett besting Christine Finsuia and Daria Ryffel 8-4. Katie O'Neal and Bryson Clifford aced Tina Styieglitz and Mara Branstad 8-0 while Lindsay Rose and Maria Sincler also swept by Jenna Sherr and Alex Rainkai 8-0.

The Garza sisters, Angelica and Jennifer, defeated Sara Ann Ledford and Macey Ollinger 0-6 while the team of Gabby Richie and Lopez eased past Poe/Lunsford 6-4. Ollinger and Hallie Adams were edged by Cole/Franklin 4-6 and Kinsey King/Autumn McGrew defeated Earlywine/Rogers 5-2.

Charlie Smith ran his season record to 1-1 as he defeated Houston Farr in the No. 1 singles match 6-3, 6-3. Cory McCauley and Aaron Tackett both blitzed their opponents 8-2 and Eric Hushfield completed the sweep in the singles matches by bouncing past Hunter Bowman 8-6.

Overall in the match the Thorobreds won by a 7-2 score.

Carr new football coach at HCHS

By MIKE ALDRIDGE, SPORTS WRITER

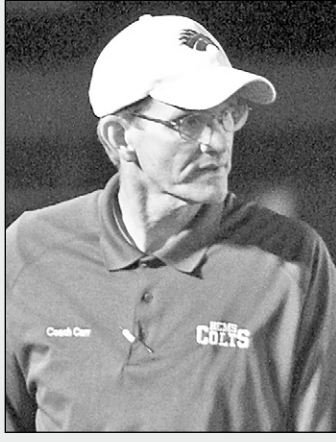

When the search for a new football coach began at Harrison County, one name was heard often among the people who were on the outside looking in.

That name was Jim Carr.

Carr has been named and has accepted the job of head football coach at Harrison County High School and is beginning to move forward.

He began Monday afternoon by holding meetings with the returning high school and middle school players. At each school the principal introduced Carr to the players.

The 1978 HCHS graduate spoke briefly while getting to know the players. Many of the players in both schools have played for Carr since he has been the Harrison County Middle School head coach for the last four years so they were already familiar to varying degrees of the expectations of the new mentor.

Carr's next step is to hire his assistants and get ready for spring practice.

"I will be looking for coaches who share my goals and my belief that integrity, character, and credibility are of utmost importance," Carr said in a Monday interview. "I believe that we have to abide by these goals and if someone doesn't believe in them, they must change or do something else."

Carr was quick to point out that there will be a 100 percent emphasis on school work.

"I am totally behind the teachers," he said. "I told the players today that a select few make a living playing football so we had to prepare to do something with our lives and education is the key ingredient to that preparation."

Mike's Minute

Now it's baseball season

With baseball's opening day only a little more that a week away (at the time of this writing), I am getting excited about another year of ups and downs for all of the fans of Major League Baseball.

There has been a great deal of movement by players from team to team in the off season and dollars thrown around like confetti.

During the time between the last out in the 2011 World Series and 2012 spring training, the Los Angeles Angels and Detroit Tigers alone spent more than one half billion dollars on player contracts.

My bet is that neither of them will be in the World Series this season to reap the benefits of their spending.

The divisions this year, with the moving around by the players, promise to have some new teams battling for supremacy.

I will go over each division and give my thoughts on which teams will end up in the thick of the races.

The National League East has a clear cut favorite in the Phillies.

The pitching in the "City of Brotherly Love" should carry them and, even with Ryan Howard and Chase Utley battling injuries, they should have enough to hold off the Braves and Marlins.

Mike Aldridge
Sports Writer

The Marlins made wholesale changes including adding the fiery Ozzie Guillen as manager and they could christen their new $119 million stadium with a pennant if the Phillies falter.

Washington won't be a factor nor will the Mets no matter how much they spend.

The American League East will be a three-team race with the Rays, Red Sox and Yankees in the running.

My money is on Boston and new, no nonsense, manager Bobby Valentine.

Toronto and Baltimore need to move to the West to have a chance to compete.

The National League Central lost more power than any other division when Prince Fielder and the former Cardinal first baseman left for Detroit and Los Angeles. Their departure firmly places 2010 MVP Joey Votto into the best first baseman in the division slot though there are still other good ones.

This is a three-team race as well with the defending World Champion Cardinals, the Brewers and the Reds poised to battle to the wire.

The Cubs have improved, at least at general manager with Theo Epstein, and could be in it for a while, but in the end Chicago, Pittsburgh and Houston will be at home for the playoffs.

St. Louis will win this division with superior pitching and a group of hitters who want to prove that they were not a one-man gang last year.

The American League Central will be the Tigers' to lose.

The White Sox are probably worse than last year and neither the Indians nor the Royals can sustain a year-long effort.

Minnesota could give the Tigers a run, but in the end they are really a small market team trying to compete with big spenders.

I like three teams in the National League West, too, as it appears to me that the Giants, Rockies and Diamondbacks could all make a serious run.

The Padres don't have it and there is so much turmoil in the Dodger camp that they will be lucky to field nine players every inning. The lesson in Los Angeles is a good lesson in how a prenuptial is critical if you own a baseball team.

The American League West has two great teams on paper and two others that won't compete though both Seattle and Oakland have some quality players.

Texas just missed on winning last year's Series with the Cardinals and will be hard to move off of the top.

Odds are that the Angels will be the wild card team this year and could make a run though the Rangers have a lot of motivation with Los Angeles trying to buy the way to the championship.

I am sticking with my annual prediction that St. Louis will win the Series again.

I believe that the other playoff teams will be Philadelphia, Florida and Arizona in the National League and Boston, New York, Detroit and Texas the American League winners.

The Yankees will lose the fall classic to the Cardinals. There you have it.

I Hope this is closer than my NCAA bracket.

Archers success continues with wins over Franklin County opposition

Though the winter was mild, the Harrison County Archery teams still had a match that had to be made up due to icy weather conditions. This match was made up on March 17 when the middle school hosted Bondurant of Frankfort and the high school archers entertained the Western Hills Wolverine squad.

Quentin Sowder led the way for the middle school boys as he won the event with a total score of 281 followed by a third place finish by Dalton Moore with 278 and Zach Manley who was fourth with 274.

The middle school girls were led to victory by Macy Robles, who finished second with a score of 281, and McKenzie Shepard who was fourth with a score of 273.

The Harrison County High School girls were led by freshman Madison Roberts who was second with 280, Samantha McCall who was third with 278, and Kaitlyn Farthing who finished fifth with a score of 274.

The high school boys swept the first four places with freshman champion Kyle Yearsley leading the way with a score of 291 of a possible 300. He was followed by Matt Wigglesworth at 284, Justin Barnes at 281, and Shayln Barnes with 281.

In all the Harrison County archers took 12 of the first 20 spots in the competition as they shot past the visiting teams.

The elementary competition did not have a team winner due to some specific rules changes, but the Harrison County athletes were successful in this division as well. Macy Yearsley was third overall with 281 and reigning overall Region 8 title winner Matthew McCarty was fourth with 278.

The archers next compete this Saturday in Louisville in the Kentucky State Championships.

Schneider finishes 10th in state bowling competition

Harrison County High School senior Zach Schneider competed in the state bowling competition last Friday in Louisville finishing 10th with a three-game total of 638.

Schneider missed qualifying for the step ladder finals by only eight pins despite the games of 199, 203, and 236.

Coach Petey Reynolds commented, "Zach bowled really well all year and I am very proud of his leadership and dedication."

Carr

"I know the competition is tough," he noted when asked about the schedule. "I have never seen a team as good as Highlands was last year, but it has to be our goal to become like them."

The Harrison County schedule is much the same for 2012 as it was in 2011 with road games at Scott County, Belfry and Covington Catholic. They open with the Hometown Pharmacy Bowl, which again will feature the Breds, Sheldon Clark, Rockcastle County and Grant County.

Carr was chosen for the job from nearly 30 applicants with the desire for stability one of the factors in the decision.

He is the son of Mary Carr and former Harrison County Schools superintendent the late Dr. Martin L. Carr.

He and his wife, the former Angela Kelsch of Augusta, have four children, Mariah and Kelsey, who are freshmen at BCTC, and Haley and Grant, who are sophomores at Harrison County High School.

He is a sales engineer employed by Fikeco Inc. in Cynthiana having graduated from Georgetown College in 1983 with a degree in physics and also from the University of Kentucky in 1987 with a degree in mechanical engineering.

Carr has been a football player in Harrison County since his Pee Wee days in 1971 and holds the distinction of playing in Riverfront Stadium on the 1973 Harrison County All Stars team that defeated their Northern Kentucky counterparts.

He was an offensive and defensive lineman for three years for the Thorobreds varsity and was voted the best Thorobreds defensive lineman in 1977. He is a member of the Harrison County Football Hall of Fame.

After high school Carr played for four years for the Georgetown College Tigers as a defensive end earning the best defensive lineman award in 1981.

He began his coaching career with the Tigers where he coached the defensive line in 1982. He was the offensive/defensive line coach at Harrison County in 1987, 1988, 2006 and 2007 and also coached the Pee Wee Football Falcons in 2002 through 2005. His last coaching position was at the Harrison County Middle School where he has been head coach since 2009.

"I would like for the community to get behind these young men and show a positive attitude as they support us," he concluded. "We need to have that '12th man' on the Hilltop on Friday nights. We can't promise to go undefeated because no one has for their career. But we plan to live and play by Vince Lombardi's creed that the will to win isn't everything, it is the only thing."

Fillies

innings 7-5 in favor of the Fillies.

Harrison County's Grose picked up her second hit of the game in the sixth but the Fillies couldn't score. Grant County's Perry hit a two-run home run in the bottom of the inning to forge the final score.

Grose and Coppage each had two hits for the Fillies and the duo along with Lucy Boyers had two RBI each to lead the Fillies batters.

The Fillies next outing was Wednesday at home facing Lexington Catholic with another home game Thursday against Rowan County in a varsity-only encounter. They then host Bracken County on Tuesday before the spring break trip to Clarksville, Tenn.

Where is God

Church News

Every time my town has an event that draws a lot of people, from a Saturday's farmer's market to a festival or parade, a local pastor and members of his church are there, handing out gospel tracts.

During the St. Patrick's Day parade, Brother Troy was on the corner, handing out tracts.

The one he gave me had an I.Q. test on the front with only one question. "GODISNOWHERE — What does this say?"

People either see "God is nowhere" or "God is now here."

People either believe God is nowhere, or at least unimportant to their lives, or they believe God is now here, that he is alive and actively incarnates himself into the lives of people.

If God is nowhere, then I am just a random collection of cells, without a destiny or a reason for existence, without a creator and director. If God is nowhere, my pain or sorrows don't have a purpose and my prayers have no direction. When I cry, I'm crying into the ether and no one greater than I hears or has the power to do anything about it.

If God is nowhere, then there is no such thing as justice. There's no such thing as evil; nothing is good because there is no ultimate, universal standard, not if we are merely random beings.

If God is nowhere, then atrocities aren't atrocious, because who's to say genocide or slavery or sexual exploitation of children are wrong?

If God is nowhere, then what is hope and where does that notion come from? What causes people who are oppressed to sing? Why would anyone sing at all, or dream — or laugh?

If God is nowhere, then what do I do with my guilt and my shame — where did they even come from?

If God is nowhere, the thought of death holds only paralyzing fear and dread, inconsolable sorrow. If God is nowhere, there's no comfort for the dying. Seventy or 80 or 90 years — and then what? Ashes scattered on the ground, blown into the wind or stuffed inside an urn?

If God is nowhere, the tediousness of life has no intrinsic or lasting joy, only only is God now here, but God, in the person of Jesus, is now here for them.

Some call it "getting saved" or being "born again." I call it the moment Jesus came.

It's the walking from darkness into the light, from chaos to order, meaningless to purpose, soul-death to spiritual life, finite into forever.

God is now here!

It's gasping and grasping at the implications. God is now here — I'm forgiven.

God is now here — I'm not alone, even when I'm lonely.

God is now here — I have a champion, someone who thinks I'm lovely and worth loving, someone who knows me, someone who will carry me, hold on to me, fight and even die for me.

God is now here — my life, even if it's a small life, still has purpose, a big purpose because it's God's purpose. My joys are God's joys; he takes delight in what delights me.

God is now here — the pull of sin, while not gone, is lessened. There's great joy in saying no to it, greater joy in saying yes to God's laws.

The whole GODISNOWHERE thing supposedly started in 1995 with a sign outside a tent at the People's Fair in Denver. It's gimmicky, but it got people's attention, sparking conversation and causing people to think.

Either God is nowhere or God is now here.

There can only be one option.

fleeting moments of pleasure and escape. If God is nowhere, life is merely marking time, a countdown of days and hours until it's over.

However, if God is now here, everything changes.

If you talk to most Christians, they can usually pinpoint a time, often even the date and place, when they knew that not

The sizes and prices are:

harriCYN Community Theatre

The harriCYN Community Theatre's Spring 2012 Production, Lost In Yonkers, will be performed at Rohs Opera House April 26-29. Thursday the 26th at 7 p.m. is our Student Night. Tickets will be $5 with opening seating. This night is designed to be an opportunity for middle and high school students to come watch the play and then we will have a question/answer type discussion with the cast and crew. With funding for the arts being cut year after year, students do not have many opportunities to learn about how to stage a production. We hope to fill the gap the schools have in providing arts to the students of Harrison and surrounding counties. We have been in contact with surrounding school districts and hope to get their students involved in this as well.

Friday & Saturday's shows start at 7pm. Sunday's show starts at 2 pm. These tickets are $10 with reserved seating. Bianckie's will again sell our tickets and they will go on sale April 1st. The Students Night tickets can be purchased through Missy Lutz.

The cast has been rehearsing since the first week of February and welcome you to come by and sit in on a rehearsal anytime. They rehearse on Tuesdays & Thursdays, 6:30 - 8:30.

ORDINANCE NO. 263, SERIES 2012

AN ORDINANCE APPROVING A ZONING MAP AMENDMENT FOR A 1.5+/- ACRE TRACT AT 974 US HWY 62 E, OWNED BY AVI BEAR HOLDINGS, LLC AND ORDERING THE ANNOTATION OF THE EXISTING A-1 AGRICULTURAL ONE CLASSIFICATION OF THE TRACT ON THE OFFICIAL ZONING MAP BE AMENDED TO REFLECT ZONING CLASSIFICATIONS OF THESE TRACTS TO B-3 HIGHWAY COMMERCIAL.

WHEREAS, Avi Bear Holdings, LLC by Avi Bear, President, has applied to the Cynthiana-Harrison County-Berry Joint Planning Commission for a zoning map amendment for a 1.5 +/- acre tract lying at 974 US Highway 62 E, Cynthiana, Harrison County, Kentucky as evidenced by Application No. 2012-01; and

WHEREAS, said Joint Planning Commission did, pursuant to KRS 100.211 and Section 1240 of the Cynthiana-Harrison County-Berry Zoning Ordinance, conduct a public hearing on said application, duly advertised as required by law, on February 20, 2012; and

WHEREAS, said Joint Planning Commission did submit Findings of the Planning Commission and Recommendations to the Harrison County Fiscal Court for property located at 974 US Highway 62 E, recommending the rezoning of said existing tracts from A-1 (Agriculture) to B-3 (Highway Commercial), with said recommendations being dated the 20th day of February, 2012; and

WHEREAS, the Harrison County Fiscal Court has reviewed the Findings, Conclusions, and the Recommendation of the Joint Planning Commission and heard arguments based on evidence presented to the Joint Planning Commission that said Application be approved; and

WHEREAS, the Harrison County Fiscal Court has found that the proposed Zoning Map Amendment meets some of the goals and objectives of the Comprehensive Plan, further, that based upon the small size of the property, it is unsuitable for any economically feasible agricultural use, the fact that the current commercial use has been in continuous existence since before the adoption of Zoning Regulations by Harrison County, Kentucky, and the proposed improvements to be made upon adoption of the Zoning Map Amendment will further benefit the welfare of the citizens of Harrison County, it is hereby FOUND that the existing zoning, A-1, which is the only zoning this property has had, is inappropriate, and that the proposed zoning classification of Highway Commercial B-3, is appropriate; and

WHEREAS, the Harrison County Fiscal Court has reviewed the Findings, Conclusions and Recommendations of the Joint Planning Commission and is otherwise sufficiently advised and is desirous of granting the requested zone change;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE FISCAL

COURT OF HARRISON COUNTY, KENTUCKY AS FOLLOWS:

Tennis

Williams came back with Josh Boggs and took the final doubles match 6-1 over Mitchell/Fooks of Bourbon County.

The tennis team had previously hosted Campbell County on the March 21 and traveled to Pendleton County on the 22nd.

The boys suffered 2-3 losses in both matches while girls fell to Campbell County by the same 2-3 score but were whitewashed 0-5 by Pendleton County.

Bright spots in these early matches were Abby Besson's 6-3, 6-4 singles win at Pendleton County and the play of boys' doubles team Wes Barnett and Jacob Markley.

The tennis squad hits the courts again on Tuesday with a match at Paris followed by a Thursday battle with Montgomery County in Mt. Sterling.

The next home match is next Monday again facing Pendleton County.

Tennis team splits with Paris Tuesday night

The Harrison County tennis team traveled back to Bourbon County on Tuesday night to match up with the Paris Greyhounds and Lady Hounds tennis squads.

The two teams split with the Thorobreds winning their match 5-3 and the Fillies losing another close match 2-3.

Paris' Emily Invergo and Estelle Withrow were too much for the Fillies to handle on this night as they each won a singles match and paired up to win in doubles for all three of the Lady Hounds points.

Invergo beat Abby Besson 0-6, 0-6 and Withrow defeated Sara Barnett 3-8 in singles and the duo defeated Katie O'Neal and Bryson Clifford 0-6, 0-6 in doubles.

Harrison's County's Shelby Tucker won her singles match over Eva Hodson 8-4 and the doubles team of Alycia Schaum and Megan Lopez defeated Hodson and Heather Ramsay for the Fillies points.

Erin Bradford and Autumn McGrew each won exhibition matches for the Fillies.

The Thorobreds started out with a loss by Charlie Smith to William Desperaux in the No. 1 singles match 5-7, 1-6, but they rallied to take three of the next four singles matches and one of two doubles to win the contest.

Cory McCauley defeated Taylor Douglas 8-2, Eric Hushfield rolled over Scott Ramsay 6-1 and Austin Merriman beat Toribio Moore by the same 6-1 count.

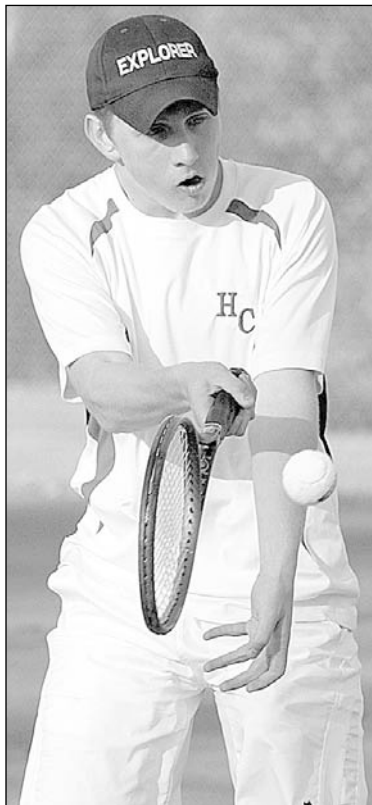

Aaron Tackett dropped a close match to Jorge Jackson 4-8 for Paris' third point while Luke Bradford lost an exhibition match to Justin Moore 1-6.

In the doubles the No. 1 team of Wes Barnett and Jacob Markley remained undefeated for the season as the spanked Ethan Gibson/Alex Preston 8-1.

Austin Roberts/Johnny Mitchell whipped Michael Frye/Frankie Bradford 8-0 to round out the Harrison County scoring.

Devon Williams and Brett Hill fell to Nick Leer/Garret West 2-8 in a non-scoring match.

Harrison County players winning exhibition matches were Josh Boggs, Jacob Markley, Aaron Tackett and the doubles team of Eric Hushfield/Elijah Refett.

Coach Petey Reynolds commented, "Zach bowled really well all year and I am very proud of his leadership and dedication."

Thorobreds handle Wildcats 7-1 in Monday road date

The Harrison County Thorobreds improved to 4-0 in the young season with a 7-1 road win over Pendleton County Monday evening. The loss left Coach Josh Hamm's Wildcats with a 1-2 record.

Pendleton County struck first as they scored their lone run in the first on two hits and two Harrison County errors. Freshman hurler Mark Taylor pitched the first three and two third innings striking out five and giving up three hits and the one run.

Harrison County took the lead for good in the third when Jordan Martin singled, stole second and scored on Hunter Hill's single. Hill advanced to third on an error and scored on John King's ground out to give the visiting Breds the lead 2-1.

The Thorobreds scored two more in the fifth. With one out, Martin doubled, Hill walked and they both scored on Justin Nutter's RBI single. The Breds scored a single run in the next inning after Zach Royse was hit by a pitch and scored on Martin's second double of the game. Harrison County finished the scoring with two more runs in the seventh on one hit, a walk, an error and two wild pitches.

Jordan Riley, Xavier Carter and Austin Refett finished the game on the mound for Harrison County combining for five strike outs in the final three and one third innings.

Thorobreds hurlers combine for 14 K's in 10-0 win over Mason County Junior Jordan Martin pitched four innings of two-hit baseball, struck out nine and drove in what was the winning run in the first as the Harrison County Thorobreds pushed their record to 3-0 with a 10-0 win over Mason County Thursday evening. The loss left the Royals with a 1-2 record.

The Thorobreds struck with the run in the first to take the lead and Martin struck out five of the first six batters that he faced as Harrison County held on to the 1-0 lead through two innings. In the top of the third, Harrison County broke the game open when senior first baseman Justin Nutter drove one deep with the bases loaded for a grand slam and a 5-0 Thorobreds lead.

Martin gave up a couple of hits in the bottom half of the inning, but with the first of the two men on base struck out Derrick Moore and got Lucas Greenfield to fly out before giving up a single to Logan Brown. He then picked Brown off first to end the inning.

The Breds scored three more times in the fourth inning on one hit and two Royal errors and two more in the seventh for the final 10-0 margin. Martin gathered two hits and scored twice to lead the Harrison County offense along with Nutter's four RBI blast. Xavier Carter and Jeffrey Faulkner finished the last three innings on the mound to secure the Harrison County win.
